FEDERAL AVIATION ADMINISTRATION

GENERAL INFORMATION

ABOUT THIS DIRECTORY

The FAA Directory contains names, addresses, and phone numbers of FAA managers. They are:

- Washington/Region/Center Headquarters
- Field Facilities
- Regional Area Maps and Organization Charts
- Alphabetical Listing
- Special Interest Groups
- Glossary

The directory shows the Washington headquarters section first. Headquarters data is arranged as follows: Administrator, Deputy Administrator, Assistant Administrators, Associate Administrators (Offices/Services are arranged alphabetically within their Associate Administration). Region and Center sections follow.

Each regional section begins with the region's organization chart and area map. Two regional subsections follow. The first subsection shows regional headquarters information. The second subsection shows the region's field facilities.

The regional field facility section contains field offices and facilities, sector level and above. It is arranged in alphabetical order by state, city within state, and type of facility within city. The city with which the field facility is associated is listed under the "CITY" column. The associated city name relates to the regional area map. The field facility's physical location is provided under the "LOCATION" Column.

The alphabetical section is a listing of all people identified in the sections described above.

Special Interest Groups contain pertinent information about various aviation associations.

The Glossary gives a brief functional description of various facilities.

The back cover of the directory has been indexed so that any directory segment can be easily located. To use the back cover index, place left thumb on the outer edge of the back cover. To locate the desired entry, fold back the remaining page edges and align the index edge mark with the appropriate page edge mark.

TELEPHONE NUMBERS

Headquarters Elements

Federal Telecommunications System (FTS) telephone numbers have been used for individuals located at headquarters offices. To place a call from one region or center to another, first dial the local FTS access code (generally 8) followed by the seven digit number. Alaskan Region is the only exception; dial FTS access code, their area code, followed by the seven digit number.

Field Facilities

Both commercial and FTS telephone numbers are shown for most field facilities. Commercial numbers should generally be used when calling an office within 50 miles. FTS numbers for field facilities may be "on-net" or "off-net". When only an FTS number is shown, the number is "on-net" and may be dialed direct from another FTS number. Dial the FTS access code (generally 8) followed by the seven digit FTS telehone number.

If an office is NOT on the FTS net, the number of the nearest FTS operator is shown. These numbers are identified by an asterisk following the number. To reach these offices, dial the FTS operator and ask for the commercial number. After obtaining the commercial number, dial the FTS access code (generally 8) followed by the commercial number.

Calls to Europe, Japan, and American Samoa

Procedures for placing calls to Europe, Japan, and American Samoa vary from location to location. To place calls to these locations, consult your local directory for calling instructions or seek assistance from your local communications center.

DISTRIBUTION OF THE DIRECTORY

This is a limited distribution publication. Under current distribution, Washington headquarters and region & center headquarters offices should receive one copy per person. Field facilities should receive one copy per every 15 employees. If additional copies are required, Washington headquarters personnel may order them through the DOT Warehouse (M-494.3) on FAA Form 1720-11 (Publications Request). Region/Center headquarters and facilities personnel should contact their respective distribution centers.

REGIONAL/CENTER DIRECTORY CHANGES

Changes to the FAA Directory are processed by regional/center FAA Directory representatives (listed below). Forward all changes as they occur to the appropriate representative on FAA Form 1100-1 (1-79), Directory—Distribution Change Notice.

HOW TO RESPOND TO CONSUMER QUESTIONS YOUR FACILITY CANNOT ANSWER

NOTE: Please address any comments/questions regarding the following to APA-400, (202) 426-1960

FAA personnel frequently receive telephone inquiries that do not concern their office, and require much time to investigate. Some questions do not even pertain to FAA: for instance, complaints concerning airline service. Others require numerous inhouse calls before the proper FAA office is located.

The following information is contained in Notice 1200.10, Consumer Affairs Inquiry Information, which was issued April 1985, and can help you (1) answer questions quickly & accurately and (2) refer your caller to the appropriate office.

Most inquiries fall under one of four categories:

A. Questions/Complaints about Airline Service.

Following the "sunset" of the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) on December 31, 1984, consumers complaining about nonsafety-related or "service" problems (such as bumping, smoking, lost luggage, flight cancellations, unfair and deceptive practices, scheduling, and refunds) are urged to follow these four steps:

1. Consult the ticket agent to determine whether he/she can either resolve the problem or refer to someone who can. Frequently, the agent is authorized to make payments up to a specified amount for certain inconveniences.
2. Each air carrier usually has a "station manager" or consumer representative at the airport. Consult either.
3. If local air carrier personnel are unable to resolve the problem, the consumer should contact the air carrier's customer relations or consumer affairs office. Most air carriers have a complaint handling office at their corporate headquarters which can authorize local personnel to make payments or take action over and above that permitted by the company's general guidelines. The ticket agent or station manager should have the address and telephone number, or call the air carrier's headquarters.
4. Consumers who remain dissatisfied with a carrier's response may finally contact the Office of Community & Consumer Affairs (OCCA), Office of the Assistant Secretary for Governmental Affairs, Department of Transportation, phone: (202) 755-2220.

   Encourage telephoning: OCCA is working with the major air carriers to identify expediters who can quickly respond to consumer complaints. DOT employees will be available Monday—Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Eastern time. During nonbusiness hours a recorded message will invite callers to leave a telephone number and address; they will be contacted the following business day. While most complaints will be handled by telephone, the consumer may be asked to put the complaint in writing.

B. Aviation Safety.

If the inquiry involves aviation safety, it is probably FAA's concern. Follow these four steps:

1. Write down the caller's name, daytime and home telephone numbers, and what allegedly happened. Be as specific as possible concerning dates, times, identification of aircraft and individuals. Offer to call back within one workday with the appropriate name and number of the office to contact.
2. If the incident involved general aviation, you can use the FAA DIRECTORY to locate and telephone the General Aviation District Office closest to the incident. Describe the inquiry/complaint, and follow their recommendation. They may want a letter, or they may want to call the consumer immediately, to determine the facts and to expedite action.
3. If the incident involved an air carrier, contact the nearest Flight Standards Field Facility—or the Flight Standards Division in your regional headquarters—to obtain the name of the office that holds that air carrier's operating certificate, or monitors its maintenance procedures. Consult the FAA DIRECTORY for both the FTS and commercial telephone numbers. Call that office and follow their recommendations.
4. If you are still unable to obtain the necessary information, call your regional public affairs office, listed in the FAA DIRECTORY. Or, FAA's Community & Consumer Liaison Division, APA-400, Office of Public Affairs, in Washington Headquarters: FTS 426-8058, or commercial (202) 426-8058. In case of complaints, call FTS 426-1960 or commercial (202) 426-1960.

C. Aircraft Noise.

If the inquiry is a complaint about aircraft noise, consult your regional headquarters for the office responsible for responding to noise complaints. Call that office and follow their recommendation.

D. General Information.

If the inquiry is of a general nature, the following questions and answers may help you respond quickly and accurately.

TWENTY-ONE MOST ASKED QUESTIONS:

FAA's CONSUMER HOTLINE was activated in the Southern Region on August 8,,1985. This toll-free service is provided for citizens with such complaints or inquiries as problems with carry-on baggage, airport security procedures, child safety seats, or user services provided by FAA, including examinations, aircraft certification, and facility operations. The toll-free number is 800-FAA-SURE. Individuals calling the FAA CONSUMER HOTLINE will receive a return call from an FAA official.

This service will be phased in on a region-by-region basis throughout the country. Once your region is included, you may simply refer inquiries/complaints you cannot handle to the toll-free FAA CONSUMER HOTLINE: 800-FAA-SURE.

GLOSSARY

Air Carrier District Offices (ACDO):

These organizations conduct those air safety programs relating to the certification, inspection, and surveillance of operations and maintenance programs and facilities of air carriers and commercial operators; certification and surveillance of air carrier airmen; surveillance of airports used for training of air carrier or commercial operator operations; and recurring certification of aircraft (in excess of 12,500 lbs.) used by air carriers or commercial operators.

Aircraft Certification Field Office (ACFO)
Manufacturing Inspection District Offices (MIDO):

These organizations provide for original and supplemental airworthiness certification or approval of civil aircraft, engines, propellers, parts, and appliances including surplus military products and parts; and conduct inspection surveillance of manufacturing facilities producing civil aircraft, engines and propellers to determine compliance with prescribed safety standards.

Aircraft Maintenance Base (AMB):

Agency facilities performing scheduled and unscheduled aircraft and avionics maintenance of FAA aircraft.

Airport District Offices (ADO):

These offices are outlying units or extensions of regional Airports Divisions. They advise and assist public agencies and their agents with the submission of project requests for establishing, improving, equipping, and financing of airports under the Airport Development Aid Program and in obtaining surplus airport property under the Surplus Property Disposal Program. They also provide advisory services to the owners and operators of both public and private airports regarding the operation and maintenance of their airports.

Airport Traffic Control Tower (ATCT):

A terminal facility which through the use of air/ground communications, visual signaling, and other devices, provides air traffic control (ATC) services to airborne aircraft operating in the vicinity of an airport and to aircraft operating on the movement area.

Air Route Traffic Control Center (ARTCC):

A facility established to provide air traffic control service to aircraft operating on Instrument Flight Rules (IFR) flight plans within controlled airspace, and principally during the enroute phase of flight. When equipment capabilities and controller workload permit, certain advisory/assistance services may be provided to Visual Flight Rules (VFR) aircraft (Aircraft flying under visual Flight rules).

Air Traffic Representatives (ATREP):

An air traffic representative at a military facility which provides approach control service to civil aircraft.

Airway Facilities Sector (AFS):

Airway Facilities Sectors (AFS) are major organizational elements operating in the field environment. They handle system maintenance operations and provide engineering services on a day-to-day basis under the general direction of the regional AF Division having purview. These organizations conduct a maintenance and certification program to assure the continued operation, accuracy, and reliability of all air traffic control, air navigation, communication facilities and ancillary equipment assigned to them. Sector Managers report directly to the regional Airway Facilities Division Chief.

Airway Facilities Sector Field Office (AFSFO):

An organizational element that is subordinate to the Airway Facilities Sector located away from the sector headquarters.It is sometimes the reporting point for one or more subordinate technical units called Airway Facilities Sector Field Office Units (AFSFOU).

Airway Facilities Sector Field Office Unit (AFSFOU):

See Airway Facilities Sector Field Office (AFSFO).

Airway Facilities Sector Field Unit (AFSFU):

A remote organizational unit directly subordinate to an Airway Facilities Sector Office but with responsibilities similar to an Airway Facilities Sector Field Office Unit.

Center Radar Approach Control (CERAP):

A combined air route traffic control center (ARTCC) and a terminal radar approach control facility (TRACON).

Civil Aviation Security Field Offices (CASFO):

These offices administer and monitor FAA's civil aviation security programs designed to combat hijacking and sabotage; and maintain liaison with airlines, airport operators, government, industry, and law enforcement officials on air transportation security matters.

Combined Approach Control/International Station (CAPIS):

A combined approach control facility and international flight service station.

Flight Inspection Field Offices (FIFOs) and Flight Inspection Groups (FIGs):

These organizations conduct in-flight inspections, and evaluations of all navigation and landing aids and certify, recertify, or deny either limited or total use of such for air navigation or landing purposes; make site surveys and determine the safety and practicability of associated flight procedures.

Flight Service Station (FSS):

Air Traffic facilities which provide pilot briefing, enroute communications and Visual Flight Rules (VFR) search and rescue services, assist lost aircraft and aircraft in emergency situations, relay ATC clearances, originate Notices to Airmen, broadcast aviation weather and NAS information, receive and process IFR flight plans and monitor radio air navigation facilities (NAVAIDS). In addition, at selected locations, FSSs provide Enroute Flight Advisory Service (Flight Watch), take weather observations, issue airport advisories, and advise Customs and Immigration of transborder flight.

Flight Standards District Office (FSDO):

These organizations have the combined functions of an Air Carrier District Office (ACDO) and General Aviation District Office (GADO).

General Aviation District Offices (GADOs):

These offices conduct those air safety programs relating to certification, inspection, and surveillance of general aviation operators, agencies, and related airmen; aircraft airworthiness (civil aircraft except those used by scheduled and supplemental air carriers and commercial operators, weighing in excess of 12,500 lbs.); air taxi operators, aerial applicators and rotocraft external load operators; and maintain surveillance of and conduct inspections of general aviation flight operations and maintenance to assure compliance with safety requirements.

International Aeronautical Telecommunications Switching Center (IATSC):

A teletypewriter switching center that connects with the international circuits.

International Field Office (IFO):

Has air carrier and general aviation responsibilities overseas.

International Flight Service Station (IFSS):

A central operations facility in the flight advisory system, manned and equipped to control aeronautical point-to-point telecommunications and air/ground telecommunications with pilots operating over international territory or waters providing flight plan following, weather information, search and rescue action, and other flight assistance operations.

National Communications Center (NATCOM):

A unique facility located in Kansas City, Missouri, that provides communication switching services to the National Weather Service (NWS), the FAA including FSSs and ARTCCs, U.S. Military, commercial and private flight organizations under auspices of the FAA and the DoD. Data handled by NATCOM's five computer systems includes weather data, flight plans, and Notices to Airmen (NOTAMs) on both national and international networks.

Radar Air Traffic Control Facility (RATCF):

An air traffic control facility, located at U.S. Navy (USN) or Marine Corps (USMC) Air Station, utilizing surveillance and, normally, precision approach radar and air/ground communications equipment to provide approach control services to aircraft arriving, departing or transiting the airspace controlled by the facility. The facility may be operated by FAA, the USN, or USMC and service may be provided to both civil and military airports. Similar radar approach control facilities are operated by the FAA, USN, USMC, and the Army.

Radar Approach Control Facility (RAPCON):

An air traffic control facility, located at a U.S. Air Force (USAF) base, utilizing surveillance and, normally, precision approach radar and air/ground communications equipment to provide approach control services to aircraft arriving, departing or transiting the airspace controlled by the facility. The facility may be operated by FAA or USAF and service may be provided to both civil and military airports. This facility is similar to an FAA TRACON (terminal radar approach control), a USN radar air traffic control facility (RATCF), and a U.S. Army radar approach control facility (ARAC).

Terminal Radar Approach Control (TRACON):

An air traffic control facility using radar and air/ground communications to provide approach control services to aircraft arriving, departing or transiting the airspace controlled by the facility. Service may be provided to both civil and military airports. A TRACON is similar to a RAPCON (USAF), RATCF (Navy) and ARAC (Army).
